He will thus have only a week in which to connistration in regard to the chairmanships and embership of the House committees in which they meet their views and gratify their desires, age Committee, but that he could not As to the committees Judge Crisp's friend had this to ool, but is giving some consideration to the commit-es of the House and to the rules, though he has not o no one. All this newspaper talk about the chairmanships is simply guesswork. Certainly none of the information has come from Mr. Crisp, and those who expect surprises and sensations will be disap-

in regard to silver coinnge and other financial questions undergone no change. On this point his friend "I also see that there has been much newspaper talk about the speaker's position upon financial estions. Instead of his views changing, Mr. Crisp uples the same ground on the silver question upon he has always stood.

'I do not expect many change; in the mittees," continued the Speaker's friend, "but gents the next House to be stiletly egular December session; but he entertains fears that the House and Senate will have some difficulty in reaching an agreement upon financial legislation, and, indeed, he apprehends dimenlty in the Democrats of the House getting together very early on account of House getting together very early on account of Howard F. Clark (alternate), Syra believes the wrinkles and creases will be smoothed out, and good compromise legislation upon the finantial question will be the result." It will be observed Judge Crisp's idea is to have "good compromise legislation" supersede the Silver Purchase law. That is the Bland idea also.

Judge Crisp has just occupied his new house, which is a commodious and comfortable structure that stands opposite the roomy one-story dwelling in which he had lived ever since the war, and his friend, after describing the new house, drew this pleasant picture of the Speaker's home life :

"Mr. Crisp is distinctly a lover of his home and family. He is never so thoroughly content as when at bome surrounded by his interesting family. He All bone surrounded by his interesting family. He spends all his time, except about an hour each morning, when he walks downtown, in his library or upon the large veranda of his home. His eventings are spent with his family and friends. His home is the resort of all the young people of Americus. They congregate there to dance, make music and sing. White the spenker is neither a dancer nor a singer, he encourages the young people in their amusements and enjoys their pleasures. Among even the younger endidren he is one of them. Indeed, the speaker is having a jolly time at home. His home is the true type of the old hospitable somitier manison. It does one good to go down and see the Speaker at his home as he is—believed by his townspeople, all of whom know him, and every one at home in his home. Apparently he is the happlest man in the world, but I am afraid he will not be so long after he reaches here, and the wrangles and fights which are sure to be begin."

MOVEMENTS OF THE WAR VESSELS.

THE ZAVALA GOVERNMENT SEEMS STABLE. Washington, July 21.-According to United States Minister Baker, the Zavala Government, in Nicara-gua, is likely to be stable. He has telegraphed the State Department from Managua that many of the Nicaraguan people have great confidence in Zavala, whose Government is fully organized. Minister Baker estimates that 75 per cent of the people as supporting it, and he has great hopes of a peaceable djustment of the present difficulties without bloodshed. He adds that the terms of the treaty of last May, by which Sacassa obtained peace, will be carried out in substance. The Acting Secretary of the Navy has received a cable message from Commander Whiting, commanding the United States ship Alliance, mying that he would leave Callao yesterday for Reciejo (Corinto), Nicaragua. The two ports are about 1,400 miles apart, and it will probably take the Alliance about ten days to make the trip. The the Alliance about ten days to make the trip. The pressal of trouble in Nicaragua makes it necessary for this country to have a war ship there for the protection of American interests, and the Alliance is the only available vessel for the purpost.

TO BE EXAMINED AT THEIR STATIONS. Washington, July 21 .- The Navy Department has opted a new policy in the examination of officers retirement and promotion when on foreign stations.

Heretofore it has been customary to order these officers home, but now they will be examined by boards organized on the stations. In this way there will be effected a considerable saving in the transportation accounts. The first case of retirement of this kind occurred to-day, when an order was sent to examine for retirement Assistant Engineer L. G. Wood, who is now on the China station.

PREPOSTEROUS RUMORS AS TO THE MAKE-UP OF COMMITTEES.

JUDGE CRISP WOULD NOT BE SO "TREACHER OUS" AS TO APPOINT ADMINISTRATION "GOLD BUGS" TO IMPORTANT

> CHAIRMAS THIPS [BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

Washington, July 21.-The suggestion that Mr. Democrat, shall supersede Mr. Bland as chairman of of Indignation among the Democrats of the South and West, and moving appeals and angry protests from Bland's friends are said to be inundating Judge Crisp, as well as burdening the mails of the President and such base "treachery" as some of the Administra-tion's supporters demand that he shall become guilty of. They declare that he is under no obligations to the Administration, and that as Speaker he will never submit to its dictation in the matter of the chairman-ship or membership of the Colhage Committee, the stitution" of Wednesday possesses considerable interest, because "The Constitution" is generally and correctly regarded as Judge Crisp's chief newspaper most devoted personal and political friends, and its fers to "a preposterous rumor" to the effect that Mr. Tracey is to be appointed chairman of the Coinage "Without speaking authoritatively, we believe we can put an end to that rumor without any formality. There is nothing in it. Judge Crisp is a Democrat and is in sympathy with the Democratic platform, mittee a man who represents the Democratic party on the financial issues. Mr. Tracey is a gold bug pure and simple. He does not believe in the financial declarations of the Democratic platform. He is a Wall Street man, and represents the views and Interests of those who are using all the machinery that wealth can purchase to wipe out and destroy more than one-half of the money basis of the country in order that the Government may be forced to issue Representatives who is a personal frient of Judge crisp, and who saw him at his home in Americus, is engaged in opnosing. He represents the Democratic party of the very elements that the Democratic party of this very elements that the Democratic party of the very elements the very elemen ment would be an outrage which Democrats interested and to revise his list of assignments in appoint Mr. Tracey to the chalmanship of the Coin financial issues, but he does not represent the Demo-cratic platform, and that fact disposes of the rumor.

"The Constitution" for some time past has advocated the unconditional repeal of the buillon-purchase provision of the Silver law, but its hot opposition to the appointment as chairman of the Coinage Committee of a Democrat who is heartily and earnestly in sympathy with the well-known views of President Cleveland on the silver question clearly shows that "unconditional repeal" means one thing to Mr. Tracey and other Democrats who call themselves and are "sound money" men, and signifies a totally different and contrary thing to the Editor of "The Constitution" and all Democrats who agree with his views.

It is apparent that the prospect of Democratic harmony even in the House of Representatives is by no means cheering, and that Judge Crisp's apprehensions that there will be difficulty "in the Democrats of the House getting together," and that "time will be required to smooth out the wrinkles and creases," are well founded.

It wil cover all the fields of engineering except electrical, which is to have a special congress. The various branches of engineering are managed in divisions. most of which are cared for by the great National societies, but military and naval engineering has been intrusted to officers of the United States Government. The division of "Marine and Naval Engineering and Naval Architecture" is under the management of Commodore George W. Melville, Chief of the Eureau of Steam Engineering of the Navy Department, with the Steam Engineering of the Navy Department, with the assistance of an advisory council and a corps of monorary presidents. The latter consists of those who now held or have held positions corresponding to the Engineer-in-Chief and Chief Naval Constructor in the United States or in foreign navies. Six of the honorary presidents are or have been officers in the United States Navy; five are from Great Britain, one is from France, one from Germany, five from Italy, one from Japan, two from Spain, and two from Nerway. Among the English members are Sir E. J. Reed, Sir N. K. Barnaby and W. H. White. The advisory council is composed of eminent naval architects and marine engineers, forty-three coming from ad, while sixty-seven are Americans,

With the advice and active co-operation of these two bodies a series of papers by authors of marked ability and experience has been secured; and these papers are to be circulated confidentially in advance of the Congress, so as to insure a careful and thorough discussion. They will form the most valuable collection of subjects that have ever been presented on questions connected with marine engineering and naval architecture. Opportunity will also be given for the display of wall diagrams and of stereopticon views in illustration of the papers.

Here are a few of the papers to be read by the foreign delegates; Sir Nathaniel K. Barnaby, "The Best War Vessel"; Professor J. Harvard Biles, "Fast Transatlantic Steamers"; Francis Elgar, "The Present Position of the Science of Naval Architecture"; R. Haack, "The Trireme at the Time of the Peloponnesian Wae"; Benjamin Martell, of England, "Naval nesian war"; Benjamin Marten, of England, "Naval Architecture in the United States"; W. J. Millar, of Scotland, "The Use of Oil at Sea"; A. E. Seaton, "Multiple Expansion Engines"; Colonel Nabor Sollani, "Uses of Liquid Fuel in the Italian Navy";

Carl Ziese, "Torpedo Boats." Among the papers of the twenty-six American authors are: Chief Engineer James H. Chasmar, "The Various Iron Mixtures Used in the Best Foundry Practice"; Chief Engineer S. L. P. Ayres, "The Standardization of S'eam-Engine Indicators and the Application of the Resnits"; J. Beavor-Webb, "Modern Steam and Salling Yachts"; Commodore E. F. Isher-Action, and its Limitations"; Edwin S. Cramp.

Durand, "Planning and Equipment of a Modern Ship

"Whaleback Steamers"; Lewis Nixon, "The New Eattle-Ships and Cruisers of the United States Navy"; Archibald Rogers, "Ice Yachts"; Charles Ward, "Tubulous Bollers"; A. A. Wilson, "Hydraulic Machinery for War Vessels."

The opening general session will be at 10 a. July 31, in one of the large halls of the Art Palace in Lake Front Park, and after appropriate addresses the divisions will be convened in their respective session rooms in the same building. There will be five morning sessions of the divisions, some of which may be leint sessions. The afternoons may be devoted to further sittings or to visits to the Exhibition, or to other points of enrineering interest, as may be determined by the divisions, and the evenings will be given up to receptions and social intercourse. The Congress will terminate with a general morning session on August 5. It is expected that members of the professions at large will attend and participate in the proceedings about which the secretary, Passed Assistant Engineer W. M. McFarland, of the Navy, in the Imreau of steam Engineering, will give information to those interested.
